INTRODUCTION

THE ORDERS are in fact the instructions made by the kings on things what he wanted to be done or on methods of how a thing should be done. An order would affect either the whole kingdom like a declaration of war or an individual alone like freeing him from slavery. Generally one order deals with one episode but sometimes there are several things mentioned in one single order. Largely the emphasis in an order depends on the individual taste or style of a king though these orders reflect upon the social and cultural background of the people. In another words, a king was absolute in power and therefore his word was law but he seldom went against tradition or religion of the majority of his subjects. These orders together with the reports on how these orders were executed and the results after these orders had been carried out were kept in the Palace Archives known as Shwe Daik. they were now all lost. fortunately, a minister or an assistant minister would have copies of these orders made for his own use and many of these survive. A considerable number of these copies are still in the hands of private collectors but most of them are now at the Rangoon National Library, Mandalay National Library, Burma History Research Department, Archaeology Department, Universities Central Library at Rangoon and the Library of Mandalay University. The present collection is the copy of the copies (including those with the private collectors) and there is no other way to do it. One copy would be used to check against the other when there are more than one copy but there are also cases when there is only one copy and it happens to be a bad copy. At first we thought that the chronicles like Kala: Maharajawan ( compiled in about 1720) and the Mhannan: (compiled by a Royal Commission in 1829) might help. Now we find that the chronicles had used these orders almost exclusively as source material and through copying several times until they were printed late in the 19th century and early in the 20th century, it would be wise to check them with these orders.

In AD 1598 there was a new dynasty of kings at Ava and therefore the year 1598 is taken as an opening date of this collection of the Royal Orders of Burma. These are only two orders found prior to it and adding these two in this collection is an afterthought. The Order of King Kya Zwa (1235-1249) is found as an inscription on a stone and therefore it is taken as original as well as contemporary. There might be some anachronism in the case of the order of King Mingyi Swa Saw Ke (1367-1400) dated 19 June 1368 because some words and phrases probably belong to a later period than they claim to be. Using only stone inscriptions we could have a glimpse of the administrative system in the Pagan period (AD 1000-1300) and of Ava since it was founded on 26 January 1365. As a framework of the administrative system, this order of 19 June 1368 is all right though a few words or phrases like wan kri: or sa: toau a can mre: toau a chak mrac toau a nwan, are, I think, later interpolations.

Using Sir Alfred Irwin's charts, AD equivalents of Burmese dates are given. The charts are made for years from AD 638 down to AD 2000 and in this way there is uniformity in the set and they are therefore dependable. There are a few points where Irwin disagrees with the actual calendar but they are negligible and for this reason, we use Irwin. Arranging the orders in chronological order would show that there are no orders for several years even during the reign of a king. It is impossible to say that a king would say nothing important in all these years for the simple reason that we could not find any order in those years. There is still a possibility that a few more might turn up to fill in the gaps.

The Kings of Nyaung Yan Dynasty were:

- 1 King Nyaung Yan (Sihaturadhammaraja), son of King Hanthawaddy Hsinbyushin; he made himself king at Ava on 27 July 1597 and died on 28 October 1605 (see ROB 28 October 1605).

- 2 King Anauk Phet Lun, son of King Nyaung Yan; he became king on 28 October 1605 and he was assassinated on 29 May 1628.
- 3 King Thalun, brother of Kin Anauk Phet Lun; he held his coronation on 28 August 1633 and he died on 23 August 1648.
We stop Part One of the Royal Orders of Burma on the demise of this king and some copies of this part give the name of Man: Sum: Pa: Amin, toau - The Royal Order of Three Kings, to it.
- 4 King Pintale, son of King Thalun; he succeeded the throne on 23 August 1648 and was dethroned by his brother on 24 May 1661.
- 5 King Pyi, son of King Thalun; he usurped the throne on 24 May 1661 and died on 3 April 1672.
- 6 King Nayawaya, son of King Pyi; he succeeded his father on 20 April 1672 and died on 16 February 1673.
- 7 King Yame thin, popularly known as King Tuesday or King Wun Be In San, brother of King Nayawaya; he was made king by the ministers as his predecessor died young without an heir and he ruled until he died on 24 April 1698.
- 8 King Dabayin (King Saturday), son of King Yamethin; he succeeded his father and died on 11 August 1714.
- 9 King Mhannan Shin (King Sunday), son of King Dabayin; he succeeded his father and died on 3 November 1733.

- 10 King Singu (mahadhammarajadhipati, King Thursday), son of King Mhannan Shin; he succeeded his father and he was captured and taken to Hanthawaddy when Ava fell on 11 March 1752 and he and his family were drowned in 1754.

These kings ruled over the Kingdom of Ava which was almost in size equal to the Union of Burma minus the coastal strips of Yakhine and Tennasserim. Taking the River Irrawaddy as the dividing line running east to west in central Burma, lands on the north of the line were known as the Province (Taing) of Sunapranta and south the Province (Taing) of Tampadipa. On the north and northeast Sunaparanta there were the Provinces of Gandhalarac or Sin, and Kamboja. On the south of Tampadipa there were Srekhattara, Jeyyawatthana and Ramanna. But it is considered that the majority of the Burmese were confined to the Provinces of Sunaparanta and Tampadipa and these two provinces were divided into seven divisions called Taik. By the Royal Order 31 May 1679, the divisions are located as follows:

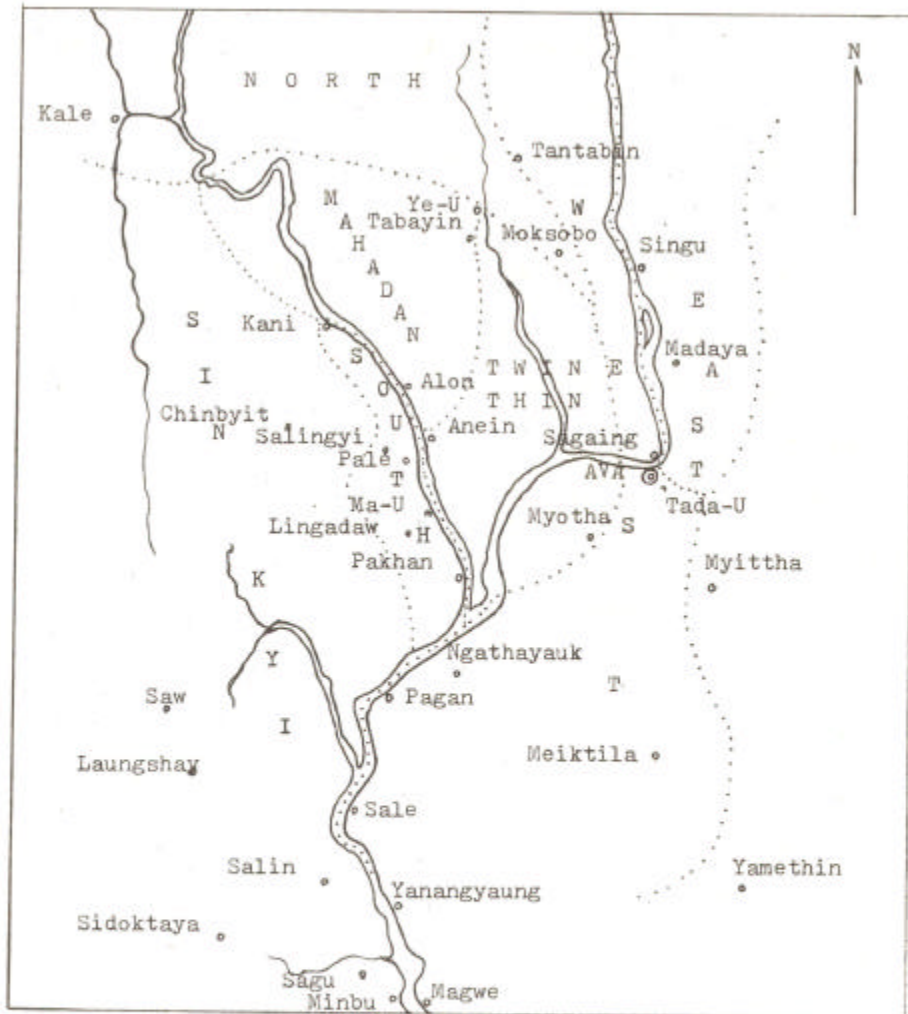

- 1 The Ashay Taik (East Division) on the east of the River Irrawaddy from Singu to Ava.
- 2 The Anauk Taik (West Division) on the west of the River Irrawaddy from Bhamo to Yamethin.

- 3 The Taung Bet Taik (South Division) on the west of the River Chindwin from Kani to Pakhan Gyi.
- 4 The Myauk Phet Taik (North Division) on the northern part of the Chindwin and Mu Valley with Moksobo (which later became Shwebo) and Mingin as the southern base.
- 5 The Twin Thin Taik was along the Mu and Irrawaddy from Ye U in the north, Myin Mu in the east, Taloke in the south and Anein in the west.
- 6 The Mahadan Taik was the triangle of Mungin-Ye U as the northern base and Anyein as the south apex.
- 7 The Sin Kyi Taik was all land east of the Anauk Yoma (the western range) except the valleys of the Chindwin and Irrawaddy.

(See the Sketch Map of Central Burma showing the Position of Taiks).

It was one of the traditional believes that there were one hundred and one ethnic groups living all over the world (see ROB 2 June 1679) and each group would have a king of its own and when the Burmese King could subdue the other one hundred kings, he would become the Universal Monarch (see ROB 22 November 1628; perhaps 11 November 1629 would be the date of this Order). The Order says:

Conduct the elaborate ritual as prescribed by the Bame

SKETCH MAP OF CENTRAL BURMA SHOWING THE POSITION OF TAIKS
IN THE 17th CENTURY

- a The Ashay Taik (East Division)
- b The Anauk Taik (West Division)
- c The Taung Bet Taik (South Division)
- d The Kyauk Phet Taik (North Division)
- e The Twin Thin Taik
- f The Mahadan Taik
- g The Sin Kyi Taik

Sayadaw that would enable the King to subdue all the other One Hundred Kings and made him King of Kings. The ritual should be conducted on 22 November 1628 within the enclosure of the Zigon Pagoda (of Ava). Perform on that day dance and music by the Indians on the east side of the pagoda, by the Burmese on the south, by the Chivese on the west and by the Shans on the norths.

Probably the date 22 November 1628 would be a mistake for 11 November 1629. We do not know from where the Burmese got the idea of the world having four major races of the Burmese, Indian, Mon and Shans and the Burmese have seven sub-families, Indians sixty four, Mon three and Shan twenty seven. All Indians were foreigners who came across the sea. Many of them were mercenaries serving the King to fight and subdue the eastern neighbours. the immigrants from the north like the In Gye, Kachin, Karen, Loo, Myee and Tayoke (see ROB 24 May 1642) were welcome and they were settled in sparse areas on the west of the Irrawaddy and Chindwin like Hpyin Ta, Hpyit Thi, Hsa Htone, Hsa Lin, Lin Ga Daw, Ma Be, Pa Dain and Si Tut Ta Ya. In another instance (see ROB 2 April 1647) these immigrants including the Shans were sent to small towns and villages so that each town would have a minimum population of 300 and a village 50. The following list in four categories of political, social, economic and cultural aspects might help a student of Burmese history to use these Royal Orders of Burma. The date of the Order in which a particular information is mentioned, is also given in this list so that the English Summary could be used for a rough and ready reference.

THE ROYAL ORDERS OF BURMA, AD 1598-1885; Part I, AD 1598-1648
SUMMARY

6 May 1249

- Order: (1) Listen with great care to this proclamation because it is in conformity with the teachings of the Religion as well as the laws passed by the ancient kings.
- (2) Give the most severe punishments to those who are guilty of theft and robbery. The king wants to be magnanimous but one good example could stop others from becoming bad. Therefore such punishments are necessary.
- (3) No one could escape punishment for doing any of these hideous crimes because no one is going to escape hell in his next life for his misdeeds in this present life.
- (4) Live a good and moral life.
- (5) Every village of more than fifty houses must have one stone inscription pillar of this proclamation.
- (6) Once in a fortnight all villagers (including those from small village where there are no such inscription stones of this proclamation) shall come to this inscription engraved on it.
- (7) Made 444 stone inscriptions of this proclamation.

This Order was proclaimed on 6 May 1249.

Note: This Order is included in this collection because it is the earliest known order of a king in Burma that has ever been recorded.

19 June 1368

Order: Ministers Maha Nanda Zayya Kyaw Htin, Maha Taraphya and Maha Thiri Nay Myo Naw Yatha, Assistant Minister Nanda Thin Gyan and Deputy Ministers Nay Myo Zayya and Thiri Zayya Kyaw Htin should see that the following points are taken care of in the execution of various aspects of administration.

- (1) Officers are appointed to maintain law and order and preserve peace and tranquility through out the kingdom.
- (2) Officers are expected to be well versed in the affairs of state so that they might not do anything detrimental to the interest of the King, the Royal Family and the State and they are given the permission to remonstrate the King if necessary.
- (3) Officers of the Interior are solely responsible for the Palace Defence and they are expected to act as the King's Eyes and Ears. Righteousness should be the guiding principle in the execution of all their state functions.
- (4) Guards of the Palace are to be on duty for twenty four hours and they must be very sharp in detecting spies of enemies coming into the precincts of the Palace.

- (5) Personnel of All the Armed Forces must be loyal and courageous but they are discouraged to be exceedingly ruthless and cruel.
- (6) Officer-in-Charge of the Capital City has the jurisdiction over the area within ten miles (16.093km) radius of the City and he is held responsible to keep this area free of burglars, thieves, robbers, rapists and arsonists. His duty is to safeguard life and property.
- (7) Officer-in-Charge of other towns and villages must help the people to work and prosper. They are to use arbitration to mitigate a minor offence or to minimise a great offence and they should keep the taxes and revenues in the minimum.
- (8) Group Leaders of All Groups in the Service of the King including the menial servants of the Palace should take care that there is efficiency in discharging duties.
- (9) Secretarial Staff of the Palace should be prompt in their work but they are to be civil in all their public dealings.
- (10) In dealing with the Vassals, civility is again the catchword.

- (11) Boundary Demarcations are always to be respected and all chiefs of administrative units must have records of the extent of the areas under their control.
- (12) Any act of treason should be dealt with promptness though thorough investigations are necessary before punishment. Keep the people happy is the slogan.
- (13) Provincial Chiefs must bring customary tributes to the King on the First Day of the Ninth Month (Nadaw) and failing to do so would be taken as an act of rebellion.
- (14) Vigilance is the keynote of all officers and men under the King.

This Order was proclaimed by Theinga Tuyin, the Chief of Heralds, on 19 June 1368.

Note : This Order conveys the idea that the Burmese kingship was just and humane and its stability is largely depended upon the efficiency of the King's ministers, etc.

30 March 1598

Note : The intercalary month of Waso the Second of this year began on 23 June 1598 and ended on 22 July 1598. Usually every third year of the Burmese calendar has an intercalary month but it was always the King who decided that the Third Month-Nayon, should have either twenty nine days as usual or thirty days. Of course he was advised by the Calendar Committee.

They lived close to but on the other side of the Burma frontier and at that moment they were found to be coming to the Burma side for loot and plunder. is read.

This Order was passed on 20 June 1604 which was the fifth day of the fourth month of the Burmese Calendar.

Minister Nay Myo Maha Dhamma reported that as the live blood of the Kingdom depends on agriculture, the declaration of the Cultivator's Calendar by the King with the advice of the Calendar Committee on the fifth day of the fourth month every year as to when it is time to start the nursery plots of the paddy plants, to prepare the fields to receive the seedlings from the nurseries, to transplant the seedlings, to start the water supply, to stop the water supply, to do the weeding, to do the harvesting, to store the year's crop, etc. is considered very important. To impress the people that the information so declared is important, an elephant, a big drum and a big gong are used. ( In fact these boundaries were declared when the Permanent Place at Ava was occupied on 3 November 1598).

(3) Within this Empire only a Prince of the Royal Family must be appointed as an Officer-in-Charge of a town which is important like the towns of Chiengmai, Hanthawaddy, Martaban, Mindon, Prome, Tavoy and Toungoo; other Princes would be appointed as officers at Keng Si, Keng Cheng in the north, at Ye and Salin in the south and at all the Riverine Toll Gates downstream.

This Order was proclaimed by using an elephant with the howdah called Ye Ka when the new King ascended the Throne at the demise of the old King on 28 October 1605.

Note: Shwe Wa was the new name of Ava. The dead king was King Nyaung Yan and the new one was King Anaukpetlun. Using a Ye Ka elephant to proclaim this Order means that it is very important. (See the ROB of 20 June 1604). According to the Mhannan (III, 1967 Reprint, pp.140 and 145) King Nyaung Yan died on 21 February 1606. Whenever a date or an event disagrees between the ROB and the chronicle, we prefer to follow the ROB.

23 June 1607

Order : (1) A Pleader should put on his head a pointed top headdress, carry a bag and use a fan of yellow handle when he appears at court on behalf of a client.

- (2) A Client is advised to give only small gifts to his Pleader when he first appears before the Judge on his behalf.
- (3) A Pleader shall take only 37 ticals of copper from his client for one case and asking or giving more than that is punishable.
- (4) A Pleader who could not possibly avoid telling lies, should therefore live at a given quarters outside the City.

This Order was proclaimed at the Hluttaw by the Chief of Heralds on 23 June 1607.

23 June 1607

Order : (1) There is always a possibility that a Judge would be misled by a Pleader who is usually a very good speaker and therefore a Judge should take care that a Pleader should not unduely exaggerate the importance of a case.

- (2) A Judge is empowered to give 100 lashes for the first offence and to exile for the second offence to the Pleader for the contempt of the court.

This Order was proclaimed at the Hluttaw by the Chief of Heralds on 23 June 1607.

23 June 1607

Order : (1) In an intergroup marriage between a woman of the one group among the nine of the Palace Entertainers in music, singing and dancing or playacting and a man of any one group of the Servants of the Palace, a male offspring should become a Servant of the Palace and a female offspring should become one of the Queen's Drummers.

(2) Children sired by a Prince of the Royal Family and born of a Palace Nautch-girl should not be taken as a member of the Royal Family.

(3) All children of the second category should become Palace Entertainers.

(4) Some of the children of the second category would be transferred to other services.

(5) It is the Royal Prerogative to do such a transfer and even then a transfer to a higher position is impossible.

This Order was proclaimed at the Hluttaw by the Chief of Heraldry on 23 June 1607.

Note : This is an exception to the age old custom of "Girls stay with mother; boy go to father". See also the ROB of (30 May 1635).

(23 June 1607)

Order : (1) A Judge should weigh the evidence and differentiate right from wrong.

(2) A Judge should use the Dhammasat to determine the the punishment though he should remember the fact that there are the differences of time and place between the case cited as an example in the Code and the case for which he would now be giving a judgement.

(3) A Judge should be moderate in exacting Court Fees or in ordering a fine or compensation. He should always take care that "the charges of repair should not exceed the the original price of a thing".

(4) A Judge should be able to stop a Pleader who would use clever words to misrepresent a case and if he were not checked in time it would be just like conniving theft or robbery right in the centre of the City.

(5) Every Judge should have a copy of this Order with him.

This Order was proclaimed by Zayyathura and copies of it were sent to all the Judges.

Note : Although the Dhammasat is an important manual for Judges, this Order gives them the power of discretion in applying it to any case that they are trying.

18 November 1607

Order : Yay Hlan Za and Le Hla Za make a return trip between Toungoo and Ava within a fortnight to seek the advice of the Bame Sayadaw as to ways and means of a speedy success in the siege of Toungoo.

This Order was proclaimed on 18 November, the day when the said two officers were sent to Ava.

Note : The monk on receiving the message said nothing but he took off his cap and put it on a receptacle. That was interpreted as a hint to pull down the finial of a pagoda outside the wall of Toungoo on the north east where the main force under the King was camping. The King of Toungoo accepted the subordinate alliance on 24 August 1610. The date 18 November 1607( 10 Nadaw 969) should be 25 November 1609 (10 Nadaw 971) because although it took long to subdue Toungoo, it would not take the period of three years.

18 April 1608

A Note on the Magic Thread of the Prince

Vijayabhahu put this thread around his body as a protection against the evil spirits when he invaded Srilanka at about the time of the Buddha's Death and this practice has spread to Burma.

A Note on the Buddha's Religion

Buddhism reached Srilanka at the time of Vijayabhahu's invasion and from there the Religion reached Thaton and Pagan. The Mahavihara

Sect of Buddhism of Srilanka reached hanthawaddy in the time of King Ramadhipati (Damazedi, 1472-92) and from there it reached Ava during the time of King Mahadhammaraja (Anaukpetlun, 1606-1628).

These Notes were submitted to the King on 18 April 1608.

November 1610

Order : Pintaga Za make a return trip between Syriam and Ava within a month to seek the advice of the Bame Sayadaw as to ways and means of a speed success in the siege of Syriam.

This Order was passed in November 1610 at the Camp on the south eastern approach to Syriam.

Note : The monk said nothing but gave the messenger one set of monastic robes, a piece of human bone and one cubit (1.5ft, 45.72cm) length of a burnt firewood; these things reminded the King that through some mistake some Servants of the Religion were in his Fighting Forces. A check was made and these people were sent back to their former services. The date November 1610 is impossible. The King started the Syriam Campaign on 15 December 1612 and Syriam was taken on 18 March 1613. Therefore this Order was given sometime in January or February 1613.

22 November 1628

Order : (1) Conduct the elaborate Ritual prescribed by the Bame Sayadaw that would enable the King to subdue all the other One Hundred Kings and made him the King of Kings.

(2) The Ritual is scheduled to be performed on 22 November 1628 within the Enclosure of the Zigon Pagoda of (Ava).

(3) Perform on that day dance and music by the Indians on the east side of the Pagoda, by the Burmese on the south, by the Chinese on the west and by the Shans on the north.

This Order was proclaimed on 22 November 1628.

Note : King Anaukpetlun was assassinated at Hanthawaddy by his son Min Ye Dibba on 29 May 1628. At Ava Prince Min Ye U Zana made himself king on 25 August 1628 and the troops sent by Min Ye Dibba defeated him on 6 December 1628. Therefore if the date of this Order 22 November 1628 (7 Nadaw 990) is correct, it might have been passed by Min Ye U Zana. But there is a possibility that the day and month are all right though the year would be 991 instead of 990. Then the date would become 11 November 1629 (7 Nadaw 991) and it was King Thalun who passed it.

18 November 1630

- (4) Restore all Boundary Marks of these Religious Lands like Nat Saunt Nat Hta - the Shrines of Guardian Spirits, Gazin - a Line of Raised Earth between Two Lands, Thit Si- a Hedge between Two Lands, and Kyauk Tine - Cairn or Stone Pillar.
- (5) Copy all Records of the Religious Lands for the Palace Archives.

This order was proclaimed on 18 November 1930.

Note: It seems that this fear of misappropriating a religious property through mistake or ignorance was present through out the Burmese history. An investigation was made in 1256 and King Tayoke Pyay returned the Religious Land which his predecessor had taken because the establishment to which the land was originally given was in ruin. In such a case the charge of the land would be given to the nearest Religious Establishment. King Kyaw Zwa (who became king on 12 December 1350) ordered on 12 March 1359 that the lithic inscriptions should be collected to check the Religious Lands

(Pl.521<sup>1</sup>). In addition to this order of 18 November 1630 to check the Religious Lands, the King also gave another order on 30 May 1635 to check the lands given in maintenance of the Shrines of Local Guardian Spirits. Another order was passed on 6 August 1636 to prohibit misappropriation of any Religious Property and the orders of 27 April 1637 and 7 November 1637 were given not only to check the Religious Lands but also to trace the descendants of the Servants of the Religion so that they could be reemployed in the Service of the Religion. The order of 4 April 1638 required the scribes to copy the old records of land dedications to the Religion. A few months before his death (on 23 August 1648) King Thalun on 18 May 1648 clearly stated at a dedication of land and men to a Religious Establishment that it was the order of a King that certain land and men were set aside for the maintenance of a certain Religious Establishment and such an order should be respected by all the later kings. And it was found that his idea of "land and men given in maintenance of a Religious Establishment " was well accepted by later kings (see ROB of 5 October 1681 and 24 July 1793) and also by the British conquerors.

Note: Increasing the number of fighting men to 885,000 is still very much less than the traditional figure of 3,000,000 men but it is definitely superior to 20,000 men raised by the former King on 15 August 1628.

Assuming that 20 % of the population is male adolescent that could be pressed into fighting service in times of emergency, the force of 885,000 men must come from a population of 4½ million. We doubt that there were that much people in the whole of Ava Kingdom at that time. The King was optimistic. If his predecessor could raise 20,000 men, he could at best raise 30,000 and no more. In that case the population in his kingdom would be 150,000.

Note: A monk is a person who has renounced the world and he cannot own either a slave or a piece of land. Men in the service of the Religion are usually called Pagoda Slaves and Monastery Slaves but they are not slaves really. They would work on lands dedicated to religious establishments and use a certain portion of the yearly produce of the land on maintenance of the establishments. After one or two generations, their descendants would be using such lands as if they owned them. Now the King wanted to re-dedicate these lands to the Religion and to reemploy these descendants of the Servants of the Religion to any one of the Religious Establishments close to where they were living if the original establishments were no longer in existence.

King Founder of the Rajamanicula (Sagaing Kaung Hmu Daw) was the middle son of King Sirisudhammarajamahadhipati (Nyaung Yan, 1600-1606) who had had his Palace at Shwe Wa (Ava). Abhaya Gamani served King Nyaung Yan (1600-1606) as a Personal Guard (Ko Hmu) and took charge of all the affairs of the Interior (Atwin Daw). He also considered it his duty to check all weapons kept in the Palace and to supervise the Guards of the Palace. Later he became the Officer-in-Charge of Twin Thin as well as the Officer-in-Charge of Shields. He was so loyal, righteous and clever in all affairs of state that the King trusted him immensely.

Nanda Yawda once served the Lord of Prome but he was brought to Ava after Prome but he was brought to Ava after Prome fell and he served King Anaukphetlun (1606-1628). He made himself useful by observing everything that the King should know and reported them when asked very faithfully. In fact it was the King who trained him to be observant and he in turn helped others so that they could work with diligence. It seemed that he was wakeful for most of the time so that nothing untoward could happen in the Palace without his knowledge. He also knew provincial affairs well. He was therefore promoted a minister. The way he worked was quite remarkable. He would be up from bed before dawn. At the break of day he would be fully dressed and he was ready to receive visitors in the front room of his residence. He received petitions and he would help the petitioners in all possible ways. At 9.00 am he came to his office and carry on with the affairs of state from the point where he left the other day. He would accept gifts given in gratitude but was always careful that these gifts did not become bribes. In another words, when punishments were waived, gifts become bribes. Since he was too occupied in pleasing the King, one should not think that he would be harsh without any kindness or justice in dealing with people in general. He was most considerate with the people who came to him with a grievance.

The good lay Devotee's work of merit coincides with good time (kala) when the ruling king is good, the good place (desa) where Buddhism flourished, and the good effort (payoga) where an abode for monks is made and therefore it is all right to exclaim "Well Done" (Sadhu).
